MONEY TAX BILL PASSES HOUSE BY VOTE OF 80 TO 17

Rate of 20 Cents, Collected as Heretofore, Winson Final Rally.

GOVERNOR MAY SIGN ACT TO-DAY

Assurances Given That Senate Will Promptly Agree to Provisions of House Bill, Which Carries Emergency Clause. Tax at Source Clause Is Eliminated.

Rather than see no action taken on the subject of money taxation in time to be effective for the 1914 assessment, enough members of the House of Delegates fell in line yesterday to pass the Weaver bill by a recorded vote of 80 to 17. The Senate has already passed a measure similar in its general terms.

ato leaders that the Weaver bill will be substituted to-day, and that the measure in the form it passed the House will reach Governor Mann this afternoon. It contains an emergency clause, making it take effect from its passage. The bill segregates to the State alone all tax on money, prohibit-ing the taxation of that form of property by the counties or cities; levies a State rate of 20 cents on $100, and provides for the assessment through individual returns to the commission-ers of the revenue as heretofore. Taxes Money Sent Out of State.

It applies to money belonging to any citizen of Virginia, on deposit with any bank or corporation, firm or person, or in the possession or under the control low rate offered, will put a stop to any movement to withdraw money from banks over the taxing period—Febover the taxing person Virginia people can secure neither legal nor moral exemption from taxation at the low rate fixed in the bill by hoarding money out of the channels of trade, or by sending it to places of deposit outside of Virginia, as returns covering both of these points must be made to commissioners of the revenue under outs and will be points must be made to commissioners of the revenue under oath, and will be subject to review by special tax grand juries.

Could Have Prevented Action.

That the opponents of the bill could have blocked the necessary four-fifths vote, and so have prevented any legislation, is shown by the fact that on the final roll call Messrs Jordan, Stearnes, Norris, Adams, Myers, Chakjey and others who had spoken vigorously against it, voted for it.

When it came to a choice between the present exorbitant rate of $1.75 on $100 for State and city taxes, and the fixed rate of 20 cents on $100 provided in the bill, these members felt it obligatory on them to vote for it as an emergency measure, even though they had been unable to carry their point for taxation at the source. Several expressed the hope that when the State comes to the general question of tax of the commissioners and subject to review by the local Central Labor Union. Mr. Gompers declared that he felt as vigorous physically and mentally as ever.

Senator Early Secures Amendments Giving Voter Choice Between That and State-Wide Prohibition at Special Election to Be Held Next June.

Within two hours after taking it up, the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections yesterday afternoon, by a vote of 6 to 5, reported the Williams enabling act with the recommendation that it do not pass. To the adverse recommendation the committee added several amendments, the most important of which requires the electorate to vote for State-wide prohibition or for local option, instead of for or against State-wide prohibition, as is provided in the bill.

The committee skirmish officially began the wet and dry contest that will be waged in the Senate this year, and prompt adjustment of preiminaries yesterday afternoon met with general approval. The twelve members did their work in executive session.
